Aim of the conference

The aim of the conference is to introduce the latest findings from the field of material science, technologies and production, also including education, information and communication technologies. Further purpose is to enable the participants to present the results of their own scientific research and professional activities with a special focus on the didactical aspects of education.

The conference is designed mainly for teachers who teach subjects in the area of materials and technologies at different schools, or use modern digital technologies and ICT in education, also for doctoral, postgraduate, and for talented students.

A reviewed scientific monograph in the category AED/AEC with ISBN and brief summaries of the lectures given at the conference by the invited speakers along with the selected contributions of the participants which give original scientific results will be published after the conference. The summaries may be published in any of the languages used. The contributions of those authors who have not been able to attend the conference will be published in the monograph for a special fee.
